

MEMO TO: THE HONORABLE MARK SANFORD, Governor of South Carolina, to the Honorable Members of the General Assembly, and the citizens of South Carolina

The 2005 Legislative Session was the best for libraries in South Carolina in memory. State Aid for public libraries increased from 82 cents per capita to $2 per capita. Counties received at least $40,000 regardless of population. Funding goes from $3,766,692 to $8,079,638. DISCUS, the South Carolina State Library's online database system, was funded in the South Carolina State Library's budget for the first time. Funding of $2,015,490 was provided. The South Carolina State Library also saw its state documents depository law revised to include notification when agencies produce an electronic document.

The South Carolina State Library also actively supported library legislative issues of other state agencies. The University of South Carolina, School of Library and Information Science, received $1.5 million to establish the Augusta Baker Chair in Childhood Literacy, the first chair named for an African-American female at the University. The Commission on Higher Education received $2 million for its electronic library program.

The South Carolina State Library accomplished much this year, and has developed plans to move South Carolina libraries forward in the future. For more information about the South Carolina State Library, please visit our website at www.statelibrary.sc.gov/.

Note: James B. Johnson, Jr. retired June 30, 2005 after thirty-three and a half years with the South Carolina State Library – fifteen of which were as director. Patti J. Butcher began her tenure as director on July 1, 2005.

FY 2004-2005 ORGANIZATIONAL OVERVIEW

Agency History (See <http://www.state.sc.us/scsl/scslhist.html>)

Title 60, Chapter 1 of the Code of Laws of South Carolina, provides statutory authority for the South Carolina State Library. Originally authorized in 1929 and known as the State Library Board, the public library extension agency was first funded in 1943. It was redesignated the South Carolina State Library with a broad range of responsibilities by Act 464 of 1969. The legislation was recodified, and Act 178 of 1985 authorized new functions.

The South Carolina State Library building at 1500 Senate Street was authorized by the South Carolina General Assembly in 1965. The building was designed by architect John Califf of the firm of Geiger, Califf and Player and financed with state funds and a federal grant under the Library Services and Construction Act. Construction began in 1967 and finished in 1969. In July 2000, the former home of the South Carolina Department of Archives and History, at 1430 Senate Street in Columbia, South Carolina, was acquired and renovated (originally constructed in 1958-59 and enlarged in 1971) to house Talking Book Services, Library Development Services, and administrative offices of the South Carolina State Library.

Mission

To improve library services throughout the state and to ensure all citizens access to libraries and information resources adequate to meet their needs. The South Carolina State Library supports libraries in meeting the informational, educational, cultural, and recreational needs of the people of South Carolina.

Vision

To be a major leader in the planning and implementation of effective informational and library services for the people of South Carolina and to be recognized as a vital component of the State's information and education infrastructure.

Values

- Quality--We endeavor to provide services of the highest quality.
- Knowledge--We believe that a well-trained and knowledgeable staff is our greatest asset.
- Freedom of Information--We believe in the fundamental freedoms inherent in a democratic society and support the Library Bill of Rights and the Freedom to Read Statement.
- Access to Information--We believe that all citizens, regardless of socioeconomic, geographic, cultural or educational status, deserve access to quality library and information services.
- Equitable Treatment--We believe information services should be delivered in a fair and unbiased manner.

Key Strategic Goals for Present and Future Years

- Provide information resources and services to meet the needs of the people of South Carolina
- Provide statewide programs to support local library services
- Serve as the advocate for the contributions that libraries make to education and economic development in South Carolina
- Encourage partnerships that enhance statewide delivery of library and information services
- Continuously improve South Carolina State Library operations

South Carolina State Library Key Customers

- Members of the General Assembly, Governor's Office, other elected officials and state government employees
- Multi-type libraries (public, school, special and academic)
- Citizens with disabilities
- Citizens of all ages and interests

Use of South Carolina State Library materials and resources is available to all citizens. Direct loan is available to state government employees and members of the General Assembly. The general public borrows South Carolina State Library materials by using the interlibrary loan services of local libraries.

The South Carolina State Library provides interlibrary loan services to supplement the local resources of South Carolina libraries.

The South Carolina State Library is an independent state agency governed by a board of seven members appointed by the Governor, with one member from each Congressional District and one from the state at large. Members serve five-year terms and may be reappointed. The Director, who is responsible for the operation of the agency, is appointed by and is responsible to the South Carolina State Library Board. (See <http://www.state.sc.us/scsl/boardmem.html>)

Agency Organizational Structure

The South Carolina State Library has authorization for fifty (50) full-time equivalent positions. The Director is responsible for daily operations of the agency and is assisted by a Deputy Director. Departmental and program directors work with both to coordinate programs and services. The Information Technology Services Department, Human Resources Management and the Finance & Business Operations Department provide support for all agency activities. The Director of the Division of Statewide Library Services is responsible for direct supervision of Library Development Services and for coordinating and monitoring the activities of Information Services, Collection Management Services and the DISCUS Program, each of which is under the day-to-day supervision of a departmental director. The director of the Talking Book Services department oversees the daily operations of programs and services for South Carolinians with blindness, visual impairments and other disabilities.

See <http://www.state.sc.us/scsl/orgdepts.html> for a complete description of the departments and programs of the South Carolina State Library and its organization chart.

The staff of the South Carolina State Library is considered one of its most valuable assets. An internal staff development and training program, coordinated by the Continuing Education (CE) Coordinator, provides continuing education opportunities that lead to skills enhancement for improvement of job performance. During FY 2005 agency staff participated in 85 professional development/continuing education events and agency sponsored workshops that enhanced the skills of public library staffs statewide.

Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation

A Gates Foundation Staying Connected $217,000 Grant for advanced technology training provided individual competitive grants to public libraries. Twelve public library staff members from across the state were awarded advanced technology training grants. Their training included coursework in advanced networking, computer systems management, network architecture, firewall management, Windows Server maintenance, and advanced web design. At the close of the FY05, work was in progress for application to the Gates Foundation to bring approximately $1.2 million to the state for replacement of Gates Foundation personal computers that were provided to public libraries in 1999 through the South Carolina State Library's administration of its first Gates Staying Connected grant ($ 2.1 million).

Services to South Carolinians with Blindness, Visual Impairments and Other Disabilities...

The Talking Book Services program circulated 265,533 recorded, large print, and Braille books and magazines and other materials and specialized playback equipment to 8,704 South Carolinians. Materials (cassettes, described videos, large print books, etc.) held by the program totaled 331,977 items at the end of FY 2005. More than 2,000 new or refurbished replacement cassette players were provided to customers.

Volunteers played a vital role in providing talking book services. Contributing 2,118 hours of service, they inspected recorded books, prepared bulk mailings, narrated books and magazines, staffed exhibit booths and more. Fifty-five volunteers were honored at a volunteer recognition ceremony held in the reading room of the Talking Book Services department.

Services to the state's youngest talking book readers is always a priority. Children from the South Carolina School for the Deaf and Blind visited the South Carolina State Library and attended a festive "bunny party" where former First Lady Rachel Hodges read from the Rosemary Wells book, Bunny Party. Another special event, a "FUNtastic Reading" theme party for children with blindness and low vision, was hosted as an adjunct to the South Carolina State Library's statewide summer reading program.

Promotion of the Talking Book Services program and connecting to communities across the state was accomplished through:

Got Homework? Get DISCUS! A Virtual Library for All South Carolinians...

DISCUS – South Carolina’s Virtual Library continued its growth and popularity. Through DISCUS, citizens served by small schools and libraries have access to the same high quality resources as those served by larger, more prosperous institutions. South Carolina residents obtained over 6.59 million items through DISCUS, a 9% increase over the previous year. A portion of this growth may be attributed to the successful Got Homework? Get DISCUS billboard and media campaign. Database upgrades included a move to Gale’s more comprehensive business database, Business & Company Resource Center, and the addition of the Greenville News to its newspaper resources. The DISCUS “train the trainer” program had 41 sessions with an attendance of 494 that included college and public library staffs, school media specialists, and school technology and curriculum resource staffs. Training evaluation surveys revealed that participants continued to rate training sessions as good or excellent. FY 2005 ended with the successful DISCUS program under the leadership of a new director and with plans for recruitment and hire of a full-time DISCUS training instructor and a part-time administrative assistant. Customers have 24/7 office/home access to 21 DISCUS databases and 19 Collegiate DISCUS databases. DISCUS comprises 13% ($2,071,000) of agency expenditures. This amount excludes salaries.

Providing Information Resources and Library Services to the People of South Carolina...

During FY 05, reference services were expanded to include the online virtual reference service "Ask a Librarian," allowing customers to use Internet "chat" features to ask questions of the South Carolina State Library's reference staff, and to receive real-time assistance in searching the catalog, other databases and the Internet. State employees have 24/7 office/home access to 21 DISCUS databases, 19 Collegiate DISCUS databases, and 12 other subscription databases. These and three additional databases are available on site for use by the public.

State Documents Depository System

The South Carolina State Library administers the State Documents Depository System to provide citizens access to state government publications. 3,281 state documents were added to the collection, bringing the total to 90,381. Changes to the state documents depository legislation expanded the scope of the definition of state publications to include materials produced for distribution in electronic formats and authorized the South Carolina State Library to preserve publications in an electronic format and to make them permanently available. Archiving of electronic formats is scheduled for phase I implementation in FY 2006. Participating in-state depository libraries:

Collections

General and special collections have been developed primarily to support the needs of public libraries throughout the state. Materials are lent to public, academic, special, and high school libraries in South Carolina, as well as to libraries outside the state. Interlibrary loan requests are transmitted to the South Carolina State Library mainly through the South Carolina Library Network and OCLC (Online Computer Library Center), a national library computer system.

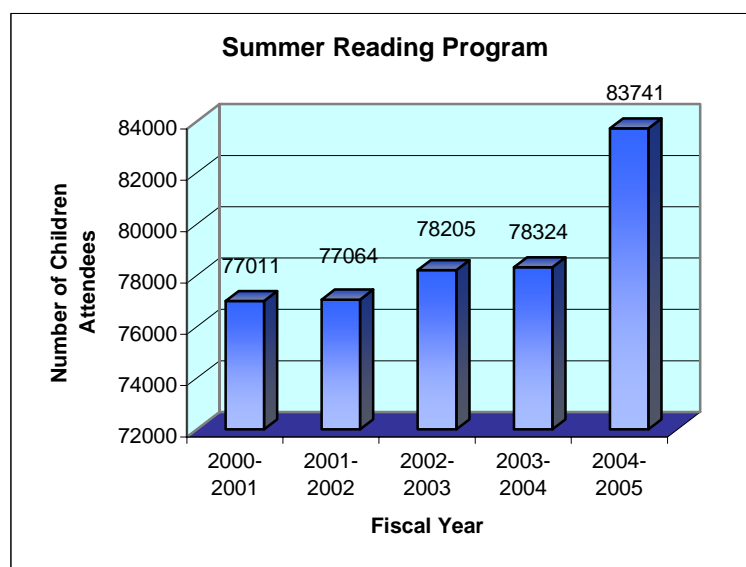

Promoting the Development of Effective Library Programs for the State's Children and Youth ...

It was a “FUNtastic” Summer in South Carolina’s public libraries. 83,741 children participated in the “FUNtastic” Reading program at public libraries across the state. Forty (40%) percent of participants completed their library’s requirements and received reading medals. At any of the 3,061 children’s programs during summer reading, children enjoyed puppet shows, storytellers, musicians, plays and other entertainment with literary connections. Total program attendance exceeded 136,533. Children borrowed and read lots of books, checking out over 1,425,000 items during the summer reading program time period. Teens got in on the act too with over 7,300 teens at twenty-two (22) library systems participating in the “READiculous” summer reading program for teens. Thirty (30%) percent of the teens completed the program.

Other events either coordinated by or involving the South Carolina State Library’s Youth services consultant:

- A workshop sponsored by the Lunar and Planetary Institute in Houston, TX (2-day training event with 29 children’s librarians participating)
- Story time workshops for Laurens and Dorchester County Libraries
- York County Library’s annual storytelling event, “Patchwork Tales”
- Richland County Public Library’s Baker’s Dozen (a two-day event in celebration of stories)
- Consultation to children’s librarians on a variety of topics, such as children’s library services for Spanish speaking populations
- “Letters About Literature”, a reading and writing promotion program of the Center for the Book in the Library of Congress, presented in partnership with Target Stores (159 students in grades 9-12 competed on Level III, 479 in grades 7-8 on Level II and 615 in grades 4-6 on Level I.)

Statewide Programs Support Local Library Services...

Facilities Planning And Building Construction

Improving public library facilities in South Carolina continues to be of utmost importance. The South Carolina State Library provided building and renovation consultation services on the following during FY 2005:

- Beaufort County—Space needs to 2025 for countywide service
- Calhoun County—New headquarters library building in St. Matthews
- Fairfield County—Renovations of headquarters buildings in Winnsboro
- Florence County—Pamplico Branch construction
- Georgetown County—Carvers Bay Branch construction
- Greenwood County—New headquarters building in Greenwood
- Kershaw County—New headquarters building in Camden; new branch in the West Wateree area
- Lancaster County—New branch location in Indian Land Community
- Lee County—New headquarters building in Bishopville
- Newberry County—New headquarters in Newberry
- Orangeburg County—New branch location in Springfield Community
- Sumter County—New headquarters in Sumter
- Williamsburg County—Additions at locations in Kingstree and Hemingway

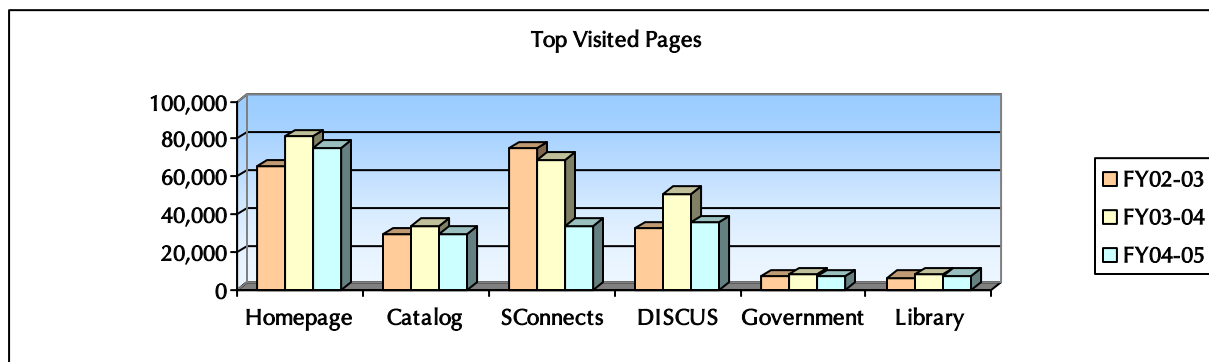

Information Technology Services

In keeping with the agency's legislative mandate to establish a statewide library network, IT Services provides the infrastructure to support the electronic sharing of information and resources to public libraries and state employees. The South Carolina Library Network (SCLN) is an Internet-based communications system designed and implemented by the South Carolina State Library to facilitate statewide sharing of library resources and databases.

The South Carolina State Library hosts a variety of electronic discussion lists designed to encourage networking and information exchange between public libraries, to enhance cooperation among partners and shareholders, and to provide timely and accurate information about services to South Carolina State Library patrons and constituents. The library is also the authorized technology plan approver for South Carolina's public libraries and provides technology planning guidance. The IT Director provides guidance to the public libraries in obtaining the Universal Service Support Mechanism (E-Rate) discounts. South Carolina's public libraries received commitments for $189,704.43 in E-Rate discounts for FY05. Workshops on the E-Rate application process were held in three locations throughout the state, effectively training 52 people in 39 library systems.

The agency's electronic catalog, WebLION, provides access to South Carolina State Library collections, both physical and virtual. South Carolina State Library cardholders access electronic subscription databases from their homes or offices. Public libraries and state employees place interlibrary loan requests through the catalog.

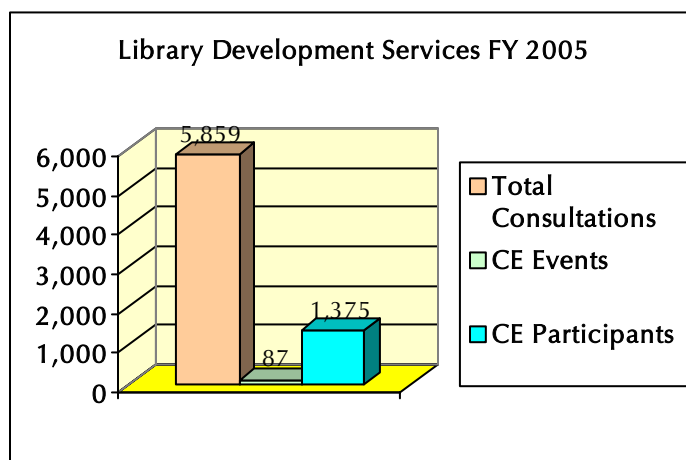

The South Carolina State Library's website, www.statelibrary.sc.gov, is the doorway to its virtual reference offerings. FY 05 ended with the initial planning stages for Phase II of a major website re-design which promises to deliver more library services online as well as real time information.

General Consultation and Continuing Education Services

Library Development Services staff provide consultation to public library staffs, administrators and trustees on staffing issues, budget planning, performance appraisals, State Aid reporting, statistical data compilations, public library director recruitments, lottery spending plans, long range plans, building site selection, Board meetings and Board training, technology bids for services, workforce planning, updating facilities studies, web page development/design, wireless access, and more. Consultation services are delivered through site visits, telephone contacts, attendance at board meetings, correspondence, and through meetings held at the South Carolina State Library.

Continuing Education (CE) programs are provided to school, college, and public libraries, state government employees, and South Carolina State Library staff. FY 2005 CE events for library staffs included: Bibliostat Connects (statistical reporting software), Bookmobile Librarians Interest Group, regional E-Rate (Universal Services) sessions, Interlibrary Loan Managers Exchange, Libris Designs (facilities planning software), QuickBooks, Story Hour workshops, System and Technical Services Managers Exchanges, Web Administrators and Youth Services Exchanges and the Annual Public Library Trustee Institute (78 public library trustees participated).

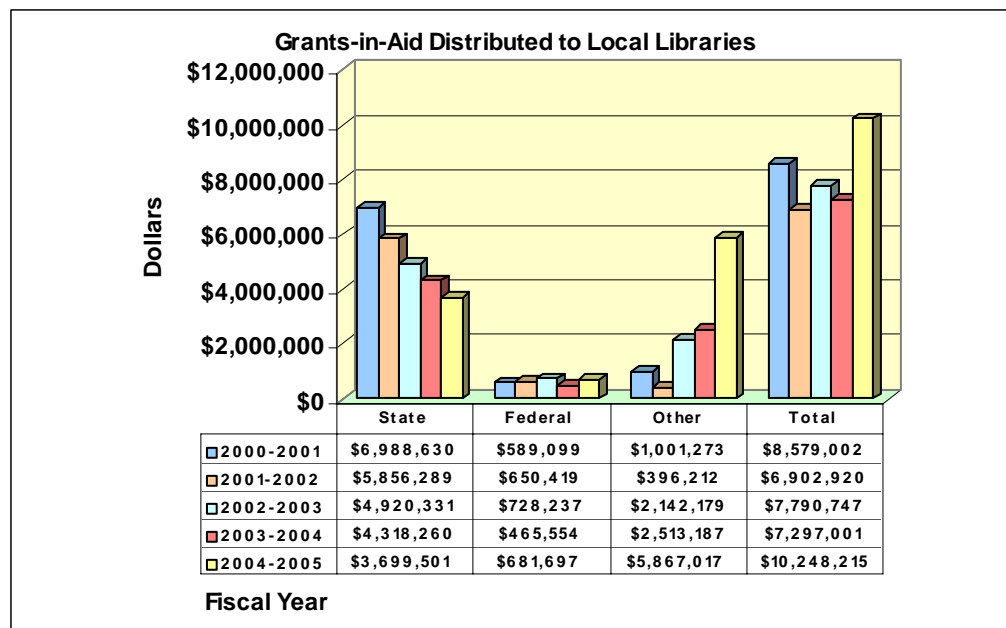

Public Libraries Benefit from Support of the General Assembly...

State Aid regulations require that participating libraries provide countywide service, maintain levels of county funding and meet certain standards of service. Qualifying libraries are required to develop strategic plans and may use State Aid funds to supplement staff salaries, purchase collection materials, purchase or lease equipment and computer hardware and software. $481,745 in S.C. Department of Revenue Enforced Collections (Proviso 73.17) supplemented appropriated State Aid—raising State Aid from $0.82 per capita to $0.96, with a $40,000 minimum funding level. Forty-five percent (45%) of the agency's general fund budget is pass through State Aid to public libraries. In total, public libraries directly received $10,248,215 through State Aid, federal grants, and the education lottery, representing 63% of agency expenditures.

The South Carolina Education Lottery Act provided $5.2 million in funds to libraries for technology improvements and expansion of collections.

A general fund appropriation of $2,015,460 was transferred to the South Carolina State Library through the K-12 Technology Committee for DISCUS.

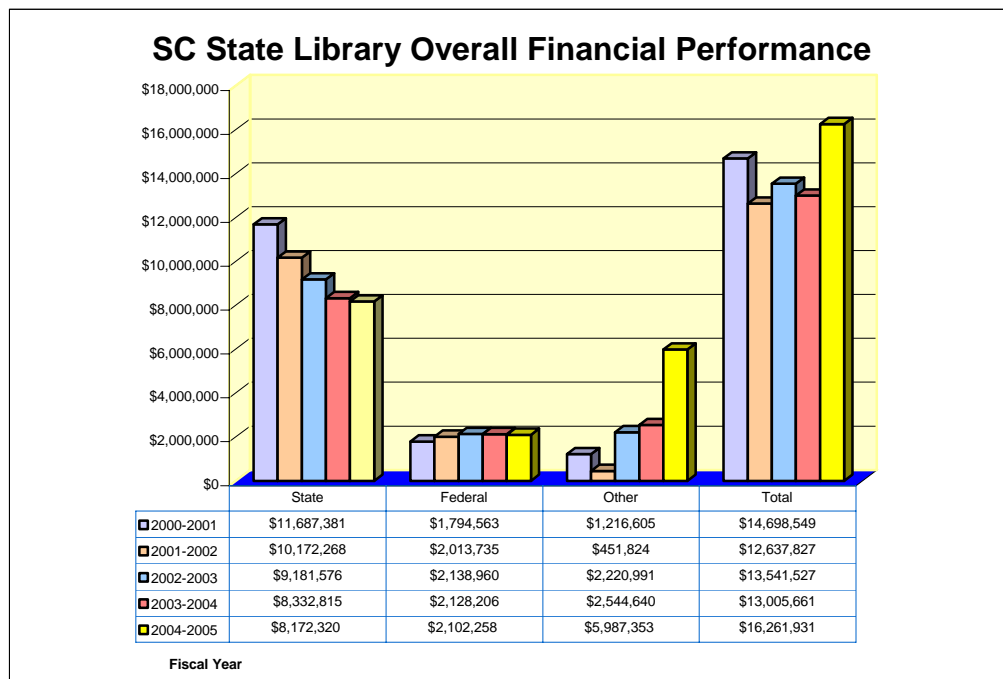

Library Advocacy: 2005 Legislative Session Highlights

- State Aid to County Libraries increased from $0.82 cents per capita to $2 per capita (funding increased from $3,766,692 to $8,079,638 and included a minimum grant of $40,000 per county).
- $2,015,490 was transferred to the South Carolina State Library for DISCUS. (Previously, these dollars were in the Department of Education's budget.)
- The South Carolina State Library supported library budget efforts of other agencies. The University of South Carolina, School of Library and Information Science, received $1.5 million to establish the Augusta Baker Chair for Childhood Literacy, the first chair at the University honoring an African-American female. The South Carolina State Library also supported a Commission on Higher Education request for $2 million for an academic electronic library program.

- The State Documents Depository Act was revised to require agencies to notify the South Carolina State Library upon publication of an electronic version of a state document. A bill also passed to require agencies mandated to make reports to the General Assembly do so electronically and to submit such reports to the South Carolina State Library, in compliance with the State Documents Depository Act.
- The South Carolina State Library Director assisted the Association of Public Library Administrators (APLA) with three regional library advocacy workshops. The South Carolina State Library Director attended, along with nine other South Carolina librarians, the American Library Association's Legislative Day on Capitol Hill.
- The South Carolina State Library's annual trustee institute focused on advocacy.

The South Carolina State Library's overall financial performance, particularly as it relates to the administration of appropriated dollars for the benefit of public libraries statewide, remains sound. Total agency expenditures were $16,261,931.

Marketing and Public Relations: Building Partnerships and Promoting South Carolina Libraries...

Partnerships

The South Carolina State Library works with a number of state and local agencies and organizations to enhance the awareness of the important role libraries play in improving the quality of life of all South Carolinians.

- The K-12 Technology Committee continues to be a major partner. Its initiative continues to fund Internet access for public libraries and also DISCUS.
- The South Carolina State Library Director is an ex-officio member of the First Steps to School Readiness State Board. Public libraries are involved with First Steps at the local level.
- The South Carolina State Library jointly funds a position at the South Carolina Humanities Council to develop adult public programs throughout the state to promote reading. This is a partnership with the Humanities Council and the Arts Commission.
- Working with the South Carolina Access to Information Technology Coordinating Committee, the agency was a partner in developing language to ensure that state agency websites are accessible to the handicapped.
- The South Carolina State Library serves as the primary sponsor of the Palmetto Book Alliance, South Carolina's Library of Congress Center for the Book Affiliate. Other sponsors include the School of Library and Information Science, University of South Carolina and the Humanities Council.

Marketing/Public Relations

- The Blue Ribbon Consumer Health Information Recognition Award was presented to the Medical University of South Carolina Library by the U.S. National Commission on Libraries and Information Science (NCLIS), during a ceremony held at the South Carolina State Library.
- The South Carolina State Library hosted a ceremony at the South Carolina State Library to announce the selection of the most notable South Carolina state government documents of 2004. The selection is announced annually on or near Freedom of Information Day.
- The South Carolina State Library participated in the Association of Public Library Administrators (APLA) annual Legislative Day event held in Columbia.
- The agency's Public Relations Coordinator participated in a panel discussion, "Promoting Library Services! More Bang for Your Buck" at the Friends of South Carolina Libraries (FOSCL) annual statewide meeting.
- In celebration of Children's Book Week, the BEST Center of the University of South Carolina held a book signing at the South Carolina State Library for the book, African Princess: the Amazing Lives of Africa's Royal Women, by Joyce Hansen, noted South Carolina children's author.
- The South Carolina State Library hosted a "Letters About Literature" awards ceremony, a reading and writing promotion program of the Center for the Book in the Library of Congress, for students in grades 4-12.
- In partnership with the South Carolina Autism Society, the South Carolina State Library facilitated participation of public libraries in Autism Awareness Month.
- The South Carolina State Library exhibited its resources and services at the South Carolina Book Festival.

- Summer Reading television promotional public service announcements were distributed to WIS, WLTX and Richland School District One television stations to promote the South Carolina State Library's statewide summer reading program, "FUNtastic Reading."
- The South Carolina State Library announced the launch of its new online chat reference service "Ask A Librarian" and its newly redesigned Web site SConnects @ the Library.
- A "GOT HOMEWORK?" billboard campaign launched September 1 by the South Carolina State Library and the Outdoor Advertising Association of South Carolina (OAASC) promoted DISCUS – South Carolina's Virtual Library, as a student's best resource for completing homework assignments.
- The DISCUS program held its first virtual reference meeting for school media specialists.
- South Carolina State Library initiated phase one of a multi-phase branding project (new general information brochure, banners, letterhead, business cards and a new look and name for the agency newsletter, "Serving SC with MORE").
- The agency's Public Relations Coordinator initiated "PR Tip of the Week" through the PRListserv for public library staffs and gave a presentation on marketing bookmobile services at the Bookmobile Librarians' Exchange.
- The South Carolina State Library launched a public library marketing pilot project with four participating libraries, Beaufort, Lancaster, ABBE (Aiken-Bamberg-Barnwell-Edgefield Regional), and Sumter.
- The Talking Book Services department hosted an Assistive Technology Advisory Committee meeting, an American Council of the Blind of South Carolina (ACB of SC) Low Vision Fair and a "FUNtastic Summer Reading" theme party for children with blindness and low vision, at the South Carolina State Library.
- Volunteers gathered at the Talking Book Services reading room for recognition ceremonies on October 6. Fifty-five (55) volunteers were recognized for contributing 1,947 hours of service.
- Children from the South Carolina School for the Deaf and Blind visited the South Carolina State Library and attended a festive "bunny party", where former First Lady Rachel Hodges read from the Rosemary Wells book, Bunny Party.
